

NEW MEXICO IS NEEDING RAINS

Drouth is Injuring Crops Greatly; Good Feed Crop Anticipated.

Santa Fe, N. M., July 12.—Private reports from various farming sections of the state are to the effect that rain must come almost immediately to save the crops. It is believed that considerable feed will be harvested, even in the sections suffering most from the drouth.

Over one-half of the wool crop has been sold and the remaining clip has been stored for a better market. The prices paid in the Rio Grande valley ranged from 12 to 15 cents up while the Roswell market registered sales as high as 25 cents. Some of the large clips in western New Mexico brought 25 cents. It is reported that Frank A. Hubbell sold 220,000 pounds at the high figure.

Because of the large acreage in feed crops, and the drouth having prevented much more than feed to be possible in many of the farming sections of the state, it is proposed to organize for the purpose of encouraging the feeding of livestock in the state, recent experiments by Frank A. Hubbell, of Bernalillo county, and A. J. Crawford, of Eddy county, having demonstrated the success of sheep and cattle feeding in the state.

Hubbell's Success is Cited.
The Hubbell experiments have been made public in every detail and a net profit of 37.5 percent made in less than five months. It is said that the Hubbell farms will feed about 15,000 lambs and several hundred head of cattle the coming season, his feeding farm having been prepared for this large number by the erection of immense silos.

An effort is to be made to secure congressional aid for the control of the food waters of the Rio Grande and Pecos water sheds, which will automatically be brought about by channeling the larger rivers. The valleys are filling up so rapidly that no private effort can hope to cope with the problems.

Engineers estimate that a few millions of dollars will recover hundreds of thousands of acres of the very best agricultural land in the state, and that the proposed improvement will be of greater general benefit than the great Elephant Butte dam.

Early Action for State Fair.
The counties of the state are making early action for a state fair and a number of them have already appropriated sums larger than for the remarkably successful fair of last year. It is said that the fair management will attempt to have the New Mexico Military Institute cadets attend the fair this fall and, if possible to arrange it, the famous battery A.

HIGHROLLS MEN BUY COGNIN RANCH AND FRUIT ORCHARDS

Alamogordo, N. M., July 12.—J. N. Ogilvie and S. Kotosky, of Highrolls, have bought the J. A. Cognin ranch, which lies one and one-half miles southeast of Highrolls. The ranch has 142 acres of land with 42 acres in orchard. There are 4000 fruit trees on the ranch. The former owner, J. A. Cognin, paid $25,000 for the place when he became its possessor.

The ranch is irrigated from springs which rise on the land. There are two large springs, each one of which flows sufficient water to irrigate many acres of land, and several smaller ones which are capable of irrigating small patches of ground.

YUMA WATERMELONS GO AS FAR NORTH AS SEATTLE

Yuma, Ariz., July 12.—Heavy shipments of watermelons are being made from Yuma, mainly to Pacific coast points as far northward as Seattle. The fruit is of exceptional quality and some of the melons are immense in size. They bring $15 a ton on the cars here. One local firm from 50 cars already has shipped 12 carloads and expects to double the number before the end of the season. Indians do the picking and the product is hauled in motor trucks to the railroad station. Few cantaloupes are grown here, the industry being rather overshadowed by Imperial valley's immense shipments.

Swinerton, Cartoonist, Has Time Of His Life, Playing Host To Arizona Aborigines

Flagstaff, Ariz., July 12.—"Jimmi" Swinerton, the cartoonist, is spending his vacation here, among the pines, and is having the time of his young life. Especially is he interested in the aborigines. So to him was given the task of herding the Indian visitors to the late Elks carnival and it was he who planned and who led the Indian section of the parade.

Two Indian camps were established, mainly on the division of the Navajos and Hopis, and Swinerton and Al Doyle saw to it that the redskins had plenty of flour, beef and potatoes and, as a crowning treat, there was provided a wagonload of watermelons.

Some of the Navajos came by train from points far to the eastward and enjoyed Swinerton's hospitality without price. One such guest is said to be worth at least $40,000 in sheep and other tangible assets.
